■ Scott Burman

The Engel Burman Group

Celebrating his 10th year anniversary as an owner/developer and a principal of The Engel Burman Group, Scott Burman specializes in planning, acquisitions and financing and has spearheaded an array of transactions of various product types and sizes.

Burman is a vital part of The Engel Burman Group, founders of the Bristol Assisted Living chain on Long Island, and has built, owned and managed thousands of condominium units, millions of square feet of retail, office and industrial buildings, and nursing homes in the tri-state area and throughout the east coast. He has been integral to the company's business development and operations, leading large industrial and office portfolio acquisitions and dispositions with values totaling in the hundreds of millions of dollars. Some of his notable transactions include the acquisition of Doubleday Campus, a 240,000-sq.-ft. office complex in Garden City and the purchase and sale of the two million square foot Highwoods Portfolio, located in North Carolina and Virginia.

With his extensive professional experience and expertise in the real estate industry, Burman has acted as a principal in other investment and development transactions throughout the New York metro area. He is a founding partner of Paramount Realty USA, a real estate auction company in New York City that represents sellers in the marketing and sale of real estate via auction on an efficient, sophisticated and accelerated basis. Paramount recently successfully executed the first developer sponsored real estate auction in New York City in nearly 20 years.

Burman earned a bachelor's degree in finance and marketing from New York University's Stern School of Business. He is an executive board member for the Long Island Real Estate Group and a co-founder of its New Generation Division, a group of real estate executives in their 20s and 30s who are organized for the purpose of raising money for local charities with real estate focused projects. He is also an executive board member for Friends Assisting Nassau Seniors and is an active supporter of the United Jewish Appeal.

After business hours Burman, a competitive triathlete, enjoys cooking and helicopter skiing.
